Editor's Window

This week I want to say a few things about built-in obsolescence. Not the sort which afflicts politicians but the kind which harasses each of us every time we flick on a light switch, start an automobile or pull on a pair of nylons.

Before you start musing on how absurd I'd look actually trying to pull on a pair of nylons, think about how absurd some women look trying to drive an automobile. On second thought, let's not think about human absurdities at all. It's pretty dull. Let's think about the light switch, and what happens when we snap it. Or what doesn't happen.

A short while ago, a fellow went into Bill Adams' Carmel Hardware store and tried to get a replacement for a small, clear, pear-shaped light bulb with a nipple on the end of it. It had just burned out. It was perhaps forty years old. In fact and in theory, there was nothing to replace it.

Over our dining table there is a chandelier with five sockets in it. In the past month I have replaced three of the five bulbs. Unless the laws of carefully calculated probability are entirely upset, I shall probably replace the other two within another month. Furthermore, I shall replace them with bulbs of an equally predictable and comparably short life span.

A pair of nylons may last a month or a minute. Seventy thousand miles is all to be expected from a new automobile without unusual care. A storage battery with a two-year guarantee can be expected to last years. And perhaps one week.

Tires, clothes, houses, appliances, typewriters, furniture — in fact, almost anything of material and mechanical substance which has become an essential or convenient part of our affluent society wears out prematurely.

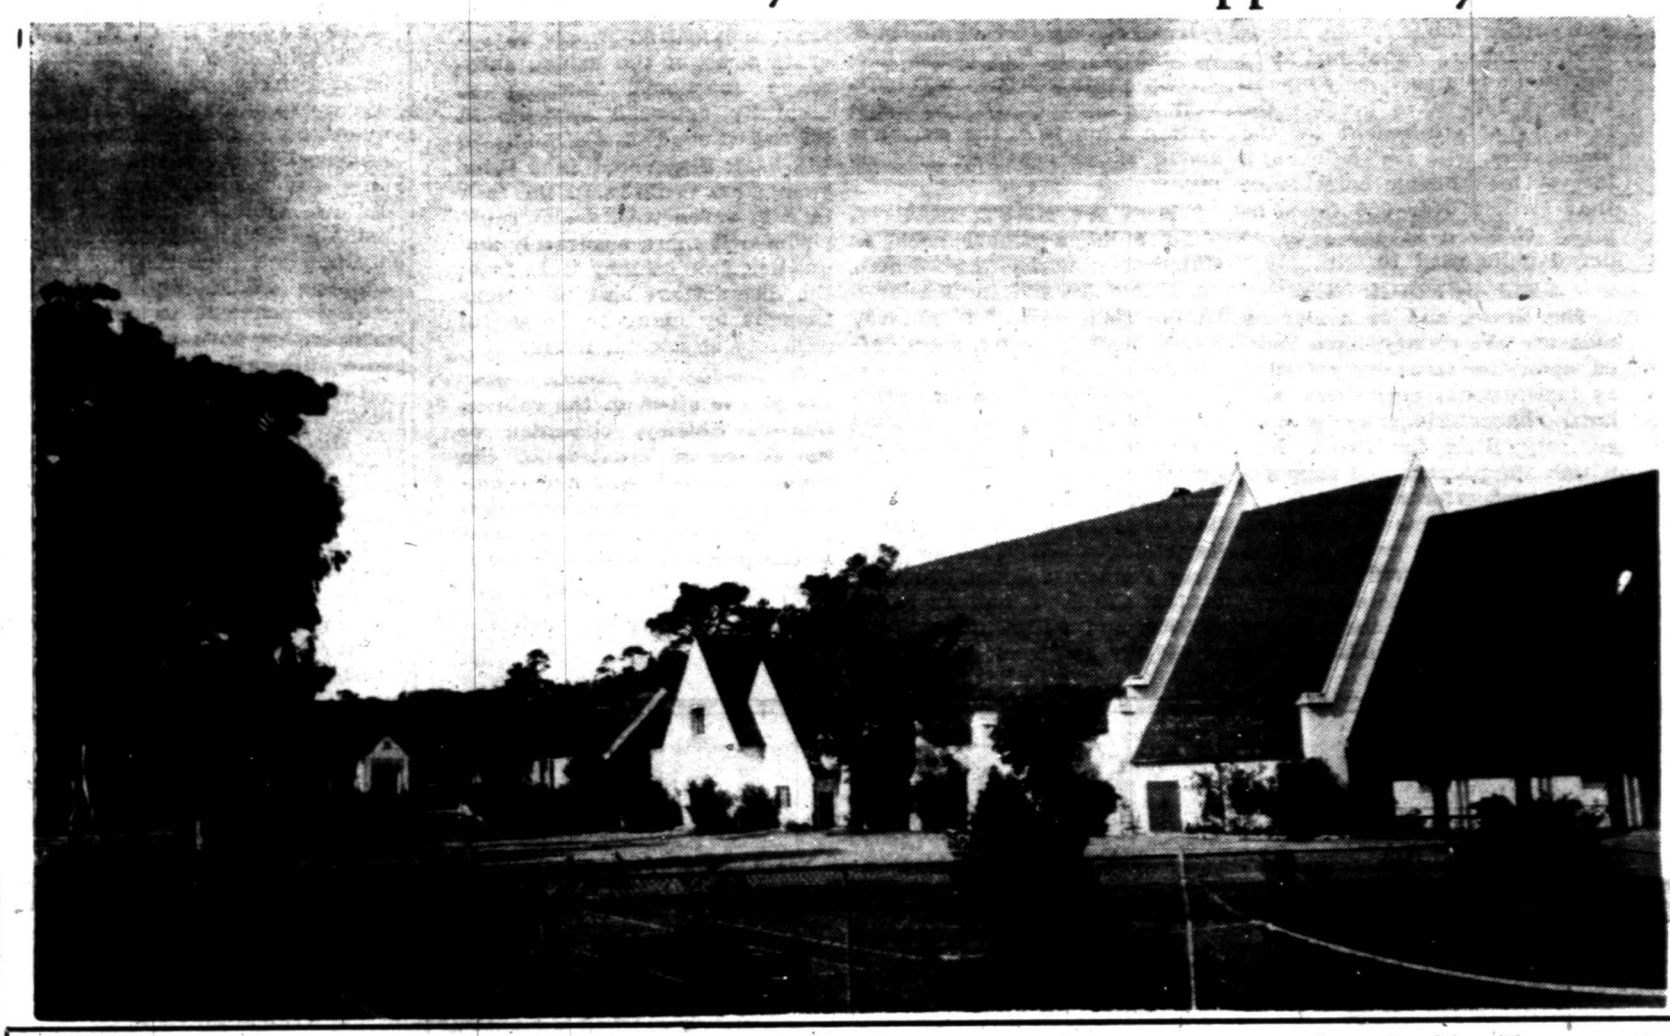

It is, of course, calculated to make its replacement relatively inexpensive; it is frequently a deliberate design to make it absolutely necessary. Very little is ever repaired any more. It is replaced. There is an extensive and thriving industry absorbed in the manufacture of replacement parts. It is founded on and dedicated to the theory that all good things must wear out. One day after the warranty expires.

A warranty is, as a matter of fact, an absolute assurance of the certain life span of a product. The writers of warranties learned the trick from the actuaries who figure out life insurance policies, especially the fully paid up part.

There is, of course, the "commercial" quality light bulb, toaster and tire. These last forever, as they should. But only other manufacturers, who refuse to be taken in by the artful deliberation of pre-calculated obsolescence — which they have probably mastered in their own field—can buy them. After all, what would happen to a fat and sassy replacement industry if all of us could buy a washing machine that would run for twenty years? It is a bewildering fact, the industry would go broke, that's what would happen.

Sunset School — A Symbol and An Opportunity

This is Sunset School. It is in many ways attractive. But it is an image of fatigue and declining usefulness. It is a remarkable coincidence that it is situated in Carmel, which exhibits some of the same characteristics.

The Trustees of the School District and the members of the City Council have embarked on a series of discussions about how best to dispose of Sunset.

The School District has made no commitments, but the City of Carmel has.

They were made about sixty years ago, when the first Carmelites settled here.

They've been pretty much lost sight of lately, which could be either the cause of what has been happening to Carmel, or merely a symptom.

Rarely does a circumstance come along which is such a forceful and explicit reason for a community to critically examine where it started, to what it has attained and where it is going to go from this irresolute period of little achievement.

The Pine Cone is going to suggest right now that the City Council commence its share of the deliberations by considering what is going to happen to Carmel, not what is going to happen to Sunset School.

Sunset could play a spectacular role in the reaffirmation of Carmel's historic objectives; but first the community must see itself and once again ardently acknowledge the inspirations from which it sprang so abundantly endowed.

Commencing next week, the Pine Cone will print a series of articles making certain proposals respecting Sunset School which may seem at first audacious and unusual. If they be so considered, it will be a compliment, for that is precisely the approach which Carmel once upon a time pursued with characteristic enthusiasm whenever confronted with either opportunity or obstacle.

The proposals are inspired by an appreciation of the extraordinary opportunity for Carmel which Sunset represents; but they will proceed not from the expediency of what to do about Sunset but rather from the need to inquire into what to do about Carmel.

We believe that this perspective is of ultimate importance. We also believe that a steadfast allegiance to this attitude will produce some exciting results.

It is our most earnest hope that our proposals will stir your enthusiasms in this essential cause.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEANINGLESS HEARINGS

Last night the City Council held what they assumed were public hearings on two ordinances previously proposed by the Planning Commission. One ordinance defined interaccessibility of all rooms within a buiding as a requirement for single-family dwellings; the other would establish regulations for parking lots in the commercial district.

But the public notice of the hearings was not published by the City Clerk's office until the 11th of April, and the Government Code (Sec. 65654) requires that at least 10 days intervene.

It is assumed, therefore, that the notices will once again have to be published and the hearings repeated.

The Council was not aware of this error as they heard Doctor James E. Gilman, a podiatrist, ask questions of the Council on the application of the interaccessibility law as it might apply to his home on Monte Verde Street south of 9th Avenue. Gilman has been contending with the city over alleged nonconformities in the house, and was apprehensive about such a law, if enacted, blocking an addition. At the conclusion of Gilman's remarks, the Council presumably passed the ordinance through first reading, Mayor Eben Whittlesey voting against it. It was a sincere, though apparently fruitless, effort.

Nobody appeared concerning the parking lot ordinance, which will regulate the appearance of all such facilities not roofed over and accommodating four or more vehicles. If adopted, permits will be required for such construction; landscaping, screening and driveways will be controlled.

Again, the ordinance was thought to have passed first reading, though unquestionably this was not the fact.

Also read at the meeting last night was an invitation to Mayor and Mrs. Whittlesey from Don Carlos Robles, Spanish Minister of Information and Tourism, to attend the ceremonies in Petra, Mallorca, commencing 29 May, celebrating the 250th anniversary of the birth of Father Junipero Ser-

How To Gamble Without Going To Las Vegas

In a move which can only be termed audacious if it succeeds or calamitous if it fails, the School Board last Tuesday night hired themselves a man from Massachusetts.

As the new Superintendent to succeed Stuart Mitchell after his retirement on 30 June, the Board appointed 48-year-old Medill Bair. Getting him from Massachusetts is not particularly courageous—the nation has put another man from those parts in the White House — but paying him a salary of $22,500 a year to operate a District with a $2,000,000 budget certainly is.

Bair's salary is stupendous compared with anything else paid by governmental agencies anywhere, not only in the County but in the State itself. That of the Lt. Governor is $20,000, for instance, and only the Governor himself will stay ahead of Bair at $40,000.

Monterey County (Budget, $16,000,000) pays its administrator $19,740. The Monterey city school

Feathers... From the Shaft

By the Fletcher 5

Confidentially, between us, there are vandals come from Venus, or p'rhaps our neighbor Lunar planetoid; invisibly unloading here and partying on cans of beer, then vanishing into a vagrant void.

Irrefutable evidence establishes the precedents which indicate a planned attack, en masse. I'm positive that no one here would discard empty cans of beer, or clutter up the scenery with their trash.

Probably they come at night on undetected astral flight, or silent wheels may serve their stinking souls. No decent human could conceive such nasty habits, I believe they must be close related to the ghouls.

Passing laws on litterbugs won't help to catch these moron mugs, so better methods must be thought of soon. So why not load our space craft high with garbage shot into the sky, and dump our contribution on the Moon.

The Mentally Retarded . . .

WARM AMBITION FOR OTHERS

Mentally retarded children are genetic accidents. About three per cent of the children born in the United States each year are victims of this accident; yet 90 per cent of them can be educated to a reasonable degree of usefulness and self-sufficiency.

This is the purpose of the Gateway Center for Retarded Children, which last Monday broke ground on a proud project to make this education capable of accomplishment.

Education of these delightful children is not solely the cold and clinical objective of the parents and dedicated compatriots who support the program. Something warmer, something more spiritual and ambitiously human inspires them to provide the means of attainment for the youngsters, who are victims of a largely inexplicable coincidence that strikes over 600 times as many children in one year as dread polio used to.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY

The State, and to a large measure the county, have looked upon the mentally retarded as institutional curiosities, and have characteristically provided very little for them. But within the parents and supporters of such efforts as the Gateway Center burns a zeal and determination to seek a more enlightened solution. To this end, with very little or no governmental support, they have turned to the foundation of specialized schools, such as Logan Hall.

In an age where society is taxed literally and figuratively to sustain an increasingly irritating structure of public welfare, the schools for the mentally retarded are frequently proving able to support themselves entirely free of the public treasury. In San Diego, Riverside, Santa Barbara and here, they are entirely self-sufficient; in San Francisco, the school is about 80 per cent self-supporting.

NOT WITHOUT HELP

To build a school such as Gateway now has commenced on Hilby Avenue in Seaside—three classrooms, a nursery room, craft training room, offices and a kitchen-dining combine, together with a playground, all disposed on two generous acres of land — requires considerable financing. The Crosby Foundation, which has done so much for youth, has allocated $16,000. The Monterey Peninsula Council for Retarded Children has raised $19,000, and a low-interest loan of $40,000 has been granted by the Monterey Savings & Loan Association. To meet this loan, contributions are still needed, and they may be mailed to the Gateway Center for Retarded Children, P.O. Box 576, Monterey.

The school, when completed, will have a capacity of about 125 children. Teaching will be dedicated to discovering the individual trends of each child and to training them for suitable vocations arising out of complete rehabilitation.

WE ARE EQUAL

In New York, a bank discovered what this could mean. Eight months was scheduled to train unimpaired people to operate some of the bank's automatic machines. Turning to mentally retarded subjects in an experiment, the officials of the bank discovered that these youngsters could learn the task in only seven weeks, and could perform it more accurately and quicker, free as they were from the distractions and diversions thought by many to be useful adjuncts of normal living.

In Seaside last Monday, over 100 people stood in the rain as Charles Shirley, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the council, turned over a ceremonial spade of dirt and dedicated the storm-swept plot of land to the proposition that all men, may, indeed, be created equal. Which is what we have believed all along.

POLITICS

On Tuesday, the San Francisco papers carried confirmation of a good political scoop which the Pine Cone carried over a month ago: that Ed Mancuso, Public Defender, would run for mayor of that city against Shelley and Dobbs. We are not intimating that any deals were involved, but Mancuso, a Democrat, is certain to split the Democratic vote, to Shelley's discomfiture—and to Dobbs' advantage — though Mancuso's chances appear slim . . .

As you filed your income tax returns during the last few weeks, were you aware that an amendment to the Constitution has been proposed which would abolish not only the income tax but would outlaw, as well, taxes on estates and gifts? Furthermore, the 24th, if ever adopted, would require the Federal government to abstain from competition with any kind of private enterprise.

Called the "Liberty" amendment, it has already been approved by six states — Georgia, Louisiana, Nevada, South Carolina, Texas and Wyoming — and if 28 more approve it, Congress will have to call a constitutional convention to submit the proposed change to the state legislatures. Ratification by 38 states would write the amendment into the Constitution. It pends before the California Legislature as Assembly Joint Resolution 16 and has been undergoing hearings in the Assembly Rules Committee . . .

The State's cigarette tax produced a net revenue of $68, 980,046 during 1962, on a tax of three cents per package. Assemblyman Alan G. Patee has remarked that as much as $2 million more could be produced without raising the rate if the revenue stamp were eliminated. A bill to effect this change is pending, converting the tax collecting method from stamp to "report." At present, a rebate of two percent of the tax is returned to distributors, who must affix the stamp to packages. The bill would eliminate this rebate worth $1.5 million, and would save another $600,000 in the cost of administering this revenue law . . .

The "Sunday Selling Law," (S.B. 845), a measure introduced by Senator Joe Rattigan (D-Santa Rosa) and powerful Senate President Pro Tem, Hugh Burns (D-Fresno), which proposes as its prime purpose "the preservation of Sunday as a day free from work, to the extent compatible with public health and safety and with rest and relaxation . . ." is going to scratch like a hair shirt on some tormented legislators before it is disposed of. The California Retailers Association is zealously trying to immunize the state against the competition they suffer from discount stores, which thrive on Sunday business.

But they are already encountering formidable and terrible opposition, not alone from the California Newspaper Publishers Association, which doesn't like the bill at all, but from the Central California Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, to whom the bill is anathema.

The church has consistenly taken the position that the government has no right to claim illegal on Sunday activities otherwise legal six days of the week, for the government can make no law respecting an establishment of religion. This law, in the eyes of the Adventists, makes Sunday a legislative as well as a religious sabbath. And the Adventists celebrate the sabbath on Saturday.

Senator Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) and Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg (z'fact), a Democrat from their respective houses, duplicate bills tightly regulating billboards on all of the state's highways.

Under provisions of the bills, no outdoor advertising of any kind would be permitted within 800 feet of a highway except for information of instant assistance to the traveling public. Such information could include immediate service station facilities, food, lodging, towing and repairs services. The two legislators, both ardent advocates of the measure, claim they are striving not only to husband our rapidly dwindling scenic resources, but for traffic safety as well . . .

Dismissal of a Teacher

Mrs. Antoinette Graham is a probationary science teacher at Carmel Junior High School. She is approaching the end of her third year of teaching in the Carmel School District. Ordinarily, her contract would be renewed another year and, because she would thereupon have completed her probationary period, tenure—that invaluable appellation signifying permanency—would attach to her record and her career. Instead, she may be dismissed.

It has been stated that the dismissal does not arise from Mrs. Graham's capacity as a teacher; all reports of observation are apparently free of criticism. Mrs. Graham's dismissal is declared to stem from a reduction in staff which is required because there are not sufficient students signed up for her courses at the Junior High School, and there is no position at the High School for which her credentials qualify her.

If denied tenure, Mrs. Graham will be but the fourth teacher in nine years to be refused permanency, the only one in the past five years.

To escape what she considers to be the critical stigma of dismissal on her records, Mrs. Graham has asked that the Board grant her a leave of absence, with the hope that the expected increase in enrollment during the next year or two might cause the establishment of a teaching assignment which she could fill.

The Board does not foresee such an eventuality. They are further concerned that the granting of the leave would constitute de facto tenure, and the district would be obligated to a teacher who could not be utilized. Mrs. Graham told the Board at a special meeting Tuesday night that she did not believe this would be the case. The question of a leave, therefore, probably hinges on the opinion regarding its effect which County Counsel William Stoffers has been asked to prepare for an adjourned meeting on the 24th, against which Mrs. Graham proposes to present information from the California Teachers' Association, should Stoffer's opinion not favor her prayer to the Board.

At least two members of the Board are known to be favorably inclined to granting the leave, if contingencies do not attach.

These are the facts of the situation insofar as they can be ascertained.

On the speculative side, a sincere undercurrent of conviction prevails that the Board bears a moral and humane obligation to consider Mrs. Graham's professional reputation, and dismissal is something which simply cannot be explained away, no matter what the exigencies of the situation are.

Among observers outside of the school system, questions also are being asked as to why the administrative machinery, which supposedly is accurate enough to rough out budgets two and three years in advance, is not accurate enough to anticipate the weight of the elements which compose such budgets: enrollment and consequent teacher requirements.

EVENTS

Clean Sweep

The Carmel Lions Club, in furtherance of two of their prime projects, sight conservation and support of the Carmel Youth Center, will sponsor during the next two days a broom sale in Carmel. Using products manufactured by the California Industries for the Blind — which cannot be purchased through the usual commercial outlets — Lion members, according to publicity chairman Walter Boyle, will offer on Friday, special household, whisk and toy brooms for sale throughout the business district. On Saturday, teams of Youth Center members and Lions will solicit sales in the residential districts.

Easter Was No Picnic

There was no Easter parade in Carmel last Sunday. Instead, a crisp and blustery morning swept the streets of tourists and the beaches of sand, bathers and picnickers. Strollers along the water's edge leaned into the wind, wrapped coats and sweaters tightly about them, and squinted their eyes against the sting of blowing sand and astringent wind.

Shortly before noon time, as many emerged from worship in their churches, the sky became overcast. The wind tore a few slanting drops of rain from the lowering sky, and finally ripped the seams out of the bulging, black clouds. Rain lashed down. Easter finery ran disconsolately through the streets, hovering under cover and out of sight, huddled drooping and dripping in parked cars with steaming windows.

Ski pants, shorts, plaid shirts, overshoes and umbrellas fought discordantly with one another as harassed people ran along the slick and glistening sidewalks, and cars bearing everyone home early, rushed up Ocean Avenue, slushing through the running water, trembling before the boots in the tailpipe that the slap-happy wind was giving them. Get out! Get out!

By two o'clock, the drained-out clouds had scudded blackly away, grumbling to themselves and sticking out impudent tongues of lightning at the dripping and dejected.

Radiant, glistening with millions of trembling drops of rain caught in pine needle and branch, Carmel began to steam out and dry up under the breath of the whipping wind and the hot sun.

But it was a Carmel almost devoid of visitor and denizen, most of whom scampered into moist seclusion to watch the rest of the day with glum suspicion.

HEALTH

Rabies Clinic

Rabies, the dread disease battled by Louis Pasteur, has been around Monterey County for some time, and it probably will remain, lurking in the bodies of wild skunks, foxes and bats. Its near-elimination from domestic pets, particularly dogs, has succeeded primarily because of the rabies clinics held by Dr. Myron Husband, Monterey County Health Officer, in cooperation with the Monterey Bay Area Veterinary Medical Association.

In a concurrent move to license and to innoculate, annual dog licenses, which expire 30 April, will be available at one of the annual rabies clinics to be held in Carmel on next Tuesday, from 10:00 a.m. until noon, at the Carmel City Hall.

The reduced fee for the vaccination is $1.50 and for the license, $2.00. If the license is not renewed before the end of May, the fee will be $3.00.

Dogs vaccinated during 1962 do not have to be revaccinated this year. (However, renewal of the license is required.)

ORDINANCE NO. 68 C.S.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR GASOLINE SERVICE STATION USE ON A CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT IN CERTAIN PORTIONS OF THE COMMERCIAL DISTRICTS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. That the Municipal Code be amended by the addition of a new section to be known as Section 1303.70, which shall read as follows:

"Section 1303.70. Gasoline Service Station Use — Location. The city recognizes that gasoline service station use has certain unique qualities not common to other uses, which makes it more appropriate that this use be permitted on a conditional use basis in certain areas of all of the commercial districts, except C-1-L and A-1, rather than permitted on any basis in all of the area of any one commercial district. Such service station use may therefore be permitted on a conditional use permit in the following areas only of the commerical districts of the city:

(1) Lots 23, 24, 25 and 26 of Block 36;
(2) Lots 21, 22, 24, and 26 of Block 37;
(3) The west one-half (½) of Block 48;
(4) The east one-half (½) of Block 49;
(5) The easterly seventy (70) feet of Lots 15, 17 and 19 in Block 56;
(6) All of Block 57;
(7) Lots 1 through 15, both inclusive, and Lots 17, 19 and 21 in Block 58;
(8) Lots 19 and 21 in Block 76;
(9) Lots 19, 20, 21 and 22 in Block 77;
(10) Lots 14, 16, 18, 20 and 22 in Block 78;
(11) Lots 1 and 3 in Block 91;

as said lots and blocks are shown as being within Zoning Districts C-2, C-1-S and C-1-C on the official zoning map of the city (Section 1390, Municipal Code)."

Section 2. That the Municipal Code of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea be amended by the addition of a new section, to be known as Section 1303.71, which shall read as follows:

"Section 1303.71. Gasoline Service Station Use—Conditional Use Permit Standards. In addition to such other considerations or standards as may be required elsewhere by Part X of the Municipal Code for the issuance of conditional use permits, the following specific standards shall be met before the issuance of any conditional use permit for gasoline service station use, namely,

(a) That the site proposed is not closer than 100 feet to any R-1 or C-1-L Zone.

(b) That no block or portion of a block described in Section 1303.70 shall have more than three (3) gasoline service station sites.

(c) That the maximum area of the site to be approved for gasoline service station use shall not be more than 8,000 square feet.

(d) That the site shall be on a corner or have a frontage on two streets."

Section 3. That the Municipal Code be, and the same is hereby amended by the adoption of a new section to be known as Section 1303.72, which shall read as follows:

"Section 1303.72. Gasoline Service Station Use—Use Permit Requirements. In each case where a conditional use permit is issued for gasoline service station use, in addition to such other conditions as may be imposed by the Planning Commission and made a part of such permit in accordance with other applicable provisions of Part X of the Municipal Code, the Planning Commission, upon the issuance of the use permit, shall make the following requirements, which shall be stated on the face of the permit:

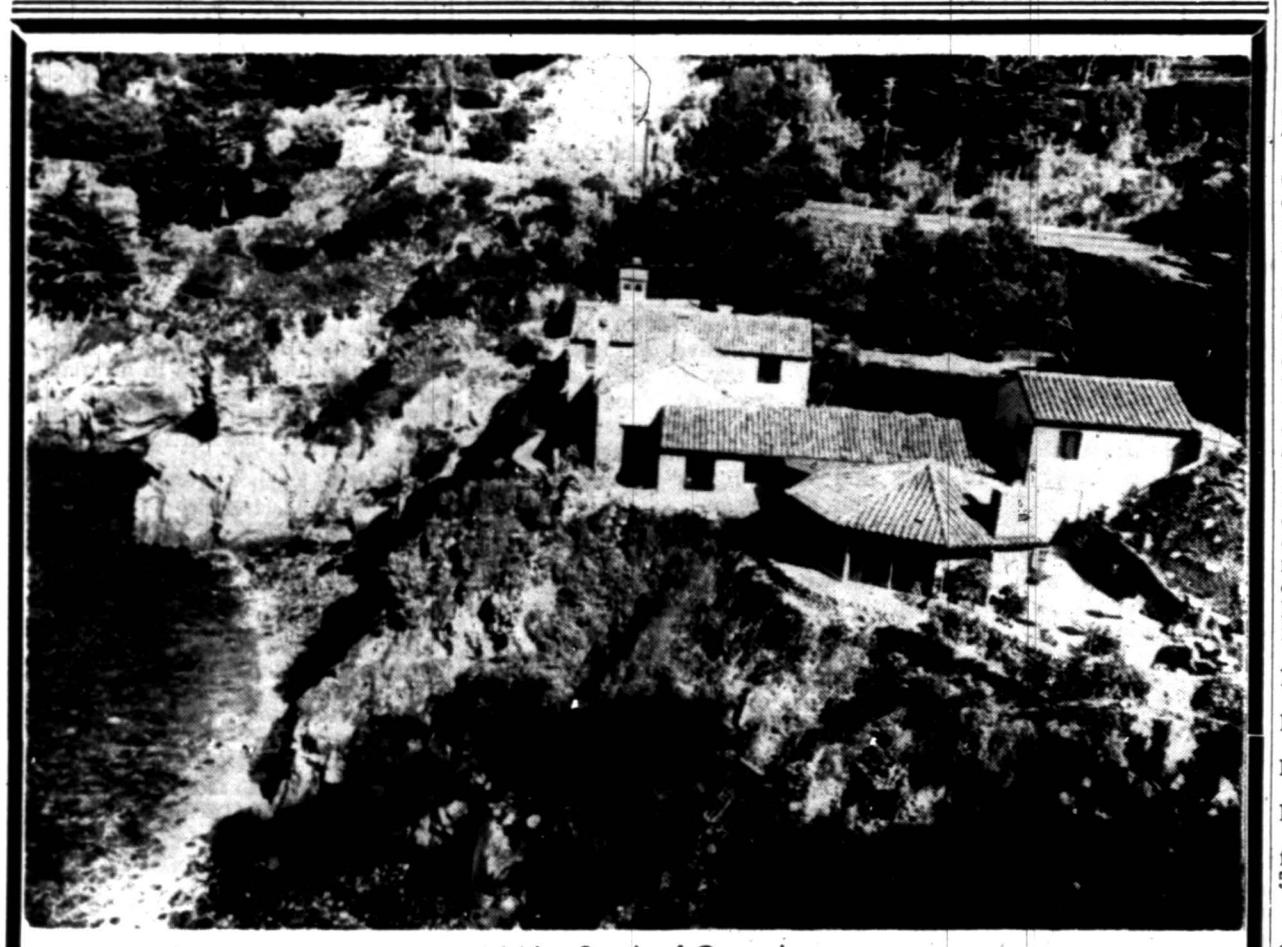

(a) That the reconstruction, remodelling or the construction of a new gasoline service station shall be accomplished within six months or the use permit will become invalid.

(b) That gasoline service station sites shall have not more than two driveways, of a width approved by the Superintendent of Streets or the City Council, but in no event greater than 33-1/3 % of the frontage of the site on a public street.

(c) That all operations and display of merchandise shall be within an approved structure, except those directly required for the dispensing of gasoline, water and air, and the replenishment of oil.

That landscaping shall be provided and maintained in a healthy state to give an attractive appearance to the public street along 80% of the street frontage not occupied by driveways. That the planting shall be of a type that will provide a mini-

ROAD TEST

By LARRY ROSE

The Spitfire Is Examined

Triumph's new Spitfire is a very quick motor car. It moves rapidly over the road, and it leaves no doubt in the mind that it is an automobile with authority, character and bold instincts.

A sports car is inevitably a compromise; although an out-and-out competition car may not be. But a sports car, in the accepted idiom, has to give creature comfort as well as performance, in one highly stressed package. It is an interesting ambition.

It doesn't take a lengthy acquaintance with the Spitfire to guess that Triumph intended to leave performance triumphant, even though a remarkable amount of creature comfort remains; so much so, in fact, that sports cars, in the MG-TC exponent, and sports cars in the present day exponent, cannot be equated with one another. The TC was severe, even austere, and sincerely uncomfortable. It was built for "go," and "go" it went. Many considered this an exhilarating experience, and so did I. But it was frequently uncomfortable and a stern test of endurance.

A Car Full of "Go"

Now, the Spitfire also goes, but the experience is deceptively comfortable and does not constitute a sporting challenge to the ruggedness of one's constitution. The car sings along at an 80-85 mph cruising pace, and it attains speeds of 90 mph without any sense of daring. During all of this, the driver rests in splendid bucket seats, the controls conveniently at hand, the wheel in efficient position and pitch, the cab (remember, this is a convertible) completely watertight, and the top cleverly framed and snapped so that it is almost entirely free of high-speed thrumming. It is, in a word, great for any chosen pace of motoring—although its spirited performance explicitly suggests that everything the law allows, and perhaps a bit more, is the happiest arrangement.

No Magic

The performance of the Spitfire is not accomplished with magic incantations. It results, as all such things do, from good engineering which evolves an engine, frame, suspension and brakes of complimentary powers and responses to power. Lotus knows this, and Lotus is reputed to have purchased 2,500 of the Spitfire front assemblies for use in its new Elan. But then, Lotus has used Triumph components — spindles, A-frames and front suspensions — for some time, and with impressive results.

The Spitfire goes with a stout engine (basically the same as that used in the Herald sedan, with the exception of dual S.U. carburetors), 1147 cc displacement, which puts out 63 hp. At 4,000 rpm, it will move the car along at 70 mph. The tachometer is "redlined" at a remarkable 6,000 rpm, made possible by the unusual block construction, reminiscent of the old Bugattis, which extends below the crankshaft centerline, permitting rigid containment of the bearing cap. Interesting, huh?

Ed Leslie and Frank Geesaman, of Leslie Motors, assigned a Spitfire to me for testing. As I drove off, they crossed their fingers, closed their eyes and turned away with a dismal shake of their heads. It was one of the most unusual and curious partings I have ever witnessed.

Bowed, But Unbloodied

The car I brought back had left its mark on me. It was a large stiff neck, from ducking to see under the windshield cowl or to peer out the side windows. I must say this now, for it is the only really unsatisfactory circumstance I encountered during all of the testing: this car — as with bed sheets — is just too small for a body stretching over six feet, one inch, in height.

And now that I have taken the professional road-tester's conventional swipe at something, let me go on to the less subjective facts which the car deserves to have stated.

The cockpit and fittings and finish are almost entirely weather resistant. Nothing will rot, split or shred, if the top is down when the rains come.

The steering wheel and column will collapse under 100 lbs. pressure, and if not damaged, can be re-positioned for further use. The entire seat tips forward for access to the storage space behind, and locks in down position so that it will not tilt on quick stops. The top stores in the trunk space without using up any storage area. It is a bit of a trick to assemble, but worth the effort because of the usable area it allows.

The windshield cowl section is unitized, thereby becoming — to all intents and purposes — practically a roll bar.

The gear ratios are superb. The gap between second and third is so sensitively planned that the power collapse experienced in many cars is totally absent.

The Best of Spitfire

A Spitfire may be driven away from Leslie Motors for about $2,340, exclusive of tax and license. A car so purchased will have a fresh-air (not recirculating) heater, tachometer, speedometer, fuel and temperature gauges, and "idiot lights" for oil pressure and amperage.

Frank Geesaman advises that actual, not claimed, performance known to him is producing 30 to 40 miles per gallon at sustained highway speeds of slightly less than 70 mph — truly formidable results.

There are quite a few other cars tooling around at about the same price which cannot possibly show the same performance, the same comfort, and the same spirit of crisp and reliable instincts as the Spitfire. It is incontrovertible proof that great improvements are always possible in a motoring world which the jaded believe has reached perfection. Don't you believe it. The Spitfire will prove you wrong.

Unless you're over six feet tall.

YACHTING

Too Much Wind

The Easter El Toro program which was to get the sailing season at Stillwater Cove off to a good start was unable to compete with the rushing winds and tides of the last storm and the program has been dropped until this summer. At that time Jon Raggett will take over the schooling and training of the neophyte skippers providing a basic course in seamanship, boat handling, and how to stay afloat though capsized.

It is a wonderful thing for the young sailing enthusiasts, as sailing and caring for El Toros provide an excellent springboard to the next class which, locally, happens to be Mercurys. Two former El Toro skippers, Dick Clark, son of Bud, and Van Yates, son of George, have already graduated and are now sailing Mercs.

Elegance Honors

As everyone knows who attended, the Concours d'Elegance, with its collection of beautiful and unusual cars, was forced by inclement weather to leave the soggy stretch of turf fronting Del Monte Lodge at the very last minute and the showing was held at the Pebble Beach Stables. Ugh!

Horseless carriages or no, this was not the proper setting, so a change is under discussion.

The only fit place is alongside the 18th green where it has always been held, so it may be slated next year for either the end of May or early in September.

Although rain did not fall on the show itself, previous rains had softened the turf to the extent that it was a squishy bit of going by foot, let alone driving cars on it.

Monterey Peninsula contestants did well. Mrs. Kevin B. Walsh, of Carmel Valley, took a first in the competition cars class with her 1956 Aston-Martin DB3S roadster, a fortunate coincidence, since this year's show commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of the first Aston-Martin produced.

Clyde N. Young, Pebble Beach, with his Dual Ghia convertible, garnered a second, and Mrs. Elsbeth T. Nelson, Carmel, a third with her 1962 Jaguar Mark X sedan, in the class of European passenger cars, $6,001 and up.

A delightful 1931 Pierce Arrow, owned by Bill Harrah of Reno, scooped up the overall trophy from Pebble Beach's Alton Walker, last year's winner, who had entered a 1912 Rolls Royce, which took first in the pre-war closed class for Rolls Royce.

A well-attended event. More than 7,500 paid to get under threatening skies, contributing $5,000 of the gate proceeds to the coffers of the Community Hospital Auxiliary.

M. A. Phillips, a Monterey wholesale candy distributor, came home with a new type of bonbon for Mrs. Phillips. His ticket won the diamond pin given as a gate prize. A good parley would be to sell it and have a set of individual pins made for the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary as token appreciation for their efforts in making the show possible.

GOLF

The Wrong-Sider

Lefty Jim Kardas, Ed Haber's field man on Carmel Valley's Green Meadows Golf Course, called in to inform us that the Northern California Championship for "fork" arms will be settled 27-28 April on Pasatiempo's testing layout.

Jim is that rarity in golf—a low handicap left-hander.

Believe it; there are not many on record.

He also tells us that the National Championship will be held in June on the Dunes and Shore Courses at Monterey Peninsula Country Club in Del Monte Forest.

"Lefties" have had a difficult time on the golf course for many years. First, it was poorly designed equipment. Though this has been changed, most courses are designed to penalize the slicer. This, of course, is the wrong-sider's hook, his strongest shot.

Then again — and for the same reason — most courses play clockwise. That is, the nines fan out from the clubhouse and usually revolve from right to left. This further handicaps the "lefty."

Golf, along with boxing, seems to be the only sport in which a left-handed contestant is penalized by the conditions of the sport itself.

There are only one or two southpaw golf pros in the country, even though it is easier for the pro to swing left-handed when giving a lesson. Most competent golf instructors have learned to play a decent game from the wrong side. If not to play, then to swing in a low handicap style.

Just a suggestion to the group: why not schedule tournaments for Australia or anywhere in the Southern Hemisphere, where the water leaving a basin or drain is said to spin counterclockwise. This very fact should make the wrongies feel right.

Anything at all to help.

HUNTING

Gun Safety

California's hunter safety training program broke the quarter million mark, the State Department of Fish & Game reports.

The Department, which administers the safety program, tells us that over 250,000 youngsters, trained by a corps of 3,300 volunteer instructors, have received their certificates indicating successful completion of the course.

G. K. "Mac" MacKenzie of the Sports and Hobby Shop heads up the Monterey Peninsula team of instructors and is presently dickering with George Wise, manager of the Fairgrounds, for class time to be used within the next week or two.

The present class is already filled for the double two-hour sessions held from seven to nine in the evening, but plans are in the making to hold classes once per month. Mac, Dee McFadden, a Monterey police officer, and Bill Welborn, car salesman, are the most active of the local group of instructors and certified by Warden Smith of the Fish & Game Department as capable and responsible. They are not compelled to pass or certify any of the boys. Goof-offs are given the old heaveho, on the theory that a wise guy in class is a wise guy in the field and should be shot out of the saddle in class before he kills or wounds some one while hunting.

ORDINANCE NO. 67 C.S.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING DIVISION 2 OF PART III OF THE MUNICIPAL CODE RELATING TO BUSINESS LICENSES

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. That Section 365 of the Municipal Code be, and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 365. TRANSFER OF LICENSES.

(a) Location. No License Tax Registration Certificate shall be valid except for the location shown on the current certificate. In the event of the removal of such licensed business to another location, the person to whom the current certificate was issued shall present to the City Clerk of the City a statement of such removal, setting forth the location for which the current certificate was issued and the proposed location of the business so licensed. Such statement shall be referred to the Building Inspector of the City for approval of use, and if approved, the City Clerk shall certify that the current certificate is valid and in effect and thereafter shall issue a certificate for the proposed location.

(b) Ownership. No License Tax Registration Certificate shall be transferred except where the business taxed is transferred, whether by sale or otherwise, to another person or persons under such circumstances that the real or ultimate ownership of the business after the transfer is substantially similar to the real or ultimate ownership existing before the transfer. Such transfer shall be accomplished by the execution of a Certification of Business License Transfer by the holder of the current certificate and the completion of an application for transfer of business license ownership by the transferee. Said certification and application shall be presented to the City Clerk of the City who shall certify that the current certificate is valid and in effect and shall thereafter issue a new certificate to the transferee."

Section 2. That the last six (6) words of Section 370, (a) Charities, etc., presently stating, "any profession, trade, calling or occupation," be, and the same are hereby amended to read, "any such profession, trade, calling or occupation."

Section 3. That the phrase appearing at the end of Section 376.01. ADVERTISING, to wit, "the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per day," be, and the same is hereby amended to read, "the license tax shall be the sum of $100.00 per day."

Section 4. That Section 376.05 of the Municipal Code be, and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 376.05. BROKERS - REAL ESTATE, STOCK, BOND, SECURITIES, PAWN, COLLECTION AGENCIES, INVESTMENT COUNSELORS. For every person, engaged in the business of selling, offering to sell, exchange, mortgage or lease real estate on commission or for compensation the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year. For every person, engaged in the business of selling, offering to sell or exchange any stocks, bonds, or other securities, the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year.

"In addition to the license tax provided in the above section, each real estate and/or stock, bond, or securities broker shall pay the sum of $10.00 per year for each licensed salesman employed by such person.

"For every person, operating the business of loan agent or broker, or any pawn broker, the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year, and provided further that no license shall be issued to any pawn broker until the application has been filed with the License Collector of said city and the applicant shall have been investigated and approved by the Chief of Police of said city.

"For every person, engaged in the business of operating a collection agency the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year.

"For every person, engaged in the business of appraising real estate or other real property on commission or for compensation, the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year.

"For every person engaged in the business of investment counselling, the license tax shall be the sum of $50.00 per year."

Section 5. That the title of Section 376.07 of the Municipal Code, presently reading, "VENDING MACHINES, SERVICE MACHINES, AMUSEMENT MACHINES, MUSIC MACHINES," be amended to read as follows:

"Section 376.07. COIN OPERATED MACHINES, VENDING MACHINES, SERVICE MACHINES, AMUSEMENT MACHINES, MUSIC MACHINES."

Section 6. That Section 376.14 of the Municipal Code be, and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 376.14. GROSS BUSINESS LICENSES. Every person engaged in the business of selling at retail or at wholesale tangible personal property of any kind whatsoever and/or furnishing any service or services not otherwise specifically taxed or licensed by other provisions of this division, and having a regularly established or fixed place of business in said city, shall between the 30th day of June and the first day of August of each year, file with the City Clerk of the city a statement showing, with deductions as permitted hereinbefore, the exact gross sales of each of such businesses during the last preceding twelve months prior to said 30th day of June. If the business be owned, conducted, or carried on, by a firm or co-partnership, such statement must be signed and filed by one of the members or partners. If the business be owned, conducted or carried on, by a corporation, such statement must be signed and filed by its president, vice-president, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, assistant-treasurer, chief accounting officer, or managing agent. The City Collector, or any deputy City Collector, may, in all cases, examine the books and accounts of any person, firm, or corporation, required to file such statement, for the purpose of verifying the same or for the purpose of determining the amount of gross receipts of such person, firm, or corporation. All statements filed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be confidential and shall not be subject to public inspection. It shall be the duty of the City Collector to so preserve and keep said statements that the contents thereof may not become known except to the person charged by law with the administration of this division, and except when it is necessary to divulge such information for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this division. Any person, who wilfully files a false statement of gross receipts shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable as hereinafter in this division provided. In the case of businesses rendering services, the gross revenue from services rendered shall be considered the equivalent of gross sales. In the case of businesses making sales and rendering services, the gross revenue from both sales and services shall be considered the equivalent of gross sales. Thereupon the City Clerk shall collect fees for one year, in advance, calculated on the exact gross sales reported and according to the following:

"The license tax shall be the amount of one mill per dollar per year on the exact total amount of the GROSS SALES, for the twelve months immediately preceding the filing of the Application for Business License, or the renewal thereof, less such deductions as are provided for in Section 360 (1) of Division 2 of the Municipal Code. Said gross sales to be set forth in the application, and providing that the minimum license tax shall be the sum of $10.00 per year, with a maximum tax assessed under this section to in no event exceed $500.00 as to any one assessment.

"Provided further that if at the time of filing application for a business license, or applying for renewal of an existing license, the applicant is unable to produce a record of the amount of the sales and/or services for the business for which application is made for the twelve months immediately preceding the date of such application, such person shall pay a business license deposit of $100.00.

"At the end of one year from and after the payment of the initial license tax deposit the Tax & License Collector shall notify the depositor of the expiration of such period and the depositor shall file with the Tax & License Collector a statement showing the gross sales of the business for the period covered by the deposit. The license tax due, plus a prorated amount to extend the license to the 30th day of June next following, shall be deducted from the deposit and the balance refunded to the depositor. If it is found that the correct tax, plus the prorated amount, is more than the amount of the deposit the additional amount shall be collected. In the event no response is received from the depositor within thirty (30) days from the date of such notification, the Tax & License collector shall send to the depositor another notice, using registered mail. If no response is received within a period of thirty (30) days from the mailing of such registered notice the Tax & License Collector shall then estimate the amount of the tax due the City and deduct this amount from the business license deposit, the remainder of the deposit to remain in the Deposit Fund for a period of six (6) months. If at the expiration of said six (6) months no response from the depositor shall have been had then the remainder of the deposit shall revert to and become the property of the City of Carmel, and the City Council shall by resolution authorize the transfer of said remainder from the Deposit Fund to the General Fund."

Section 7. That Section 376.21. PROFESSIONS, of the Municipal Code be amended so as to add the word, "Podiatrist," after the word, "Naturopath," in the list of professions, businesses or occupations listed in said section.

Section 8. That Section 376.23 of the Municipal Code be, and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 376.23. TEACHERS. For every person conducting, managing or carrying on the business or occupation of teaching music, dancing, languages, drawing, painting, elocution, dramatics, sculpture, wood carving, cooking or any cultural, commercial or mechanical accomplishment, and having four (4) or more pupils, the license tax shall be the sum of $10.00 per year. In addition to the license tax provided above, each person engaged in any of the above - mentioned businesses or occupations shall pay the sum of $10.00 per year for each teacher employed by such person."

Section 9. Effective Date. This ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final passage and adoption.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

A Bible Lesson on the subject, "Doctrine of Atonement," will be read this Sunday in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

The Golden Text is from John (3:17): "God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

Related readings will include this passage: "Jesus' teaching and practice of Truth involved such a sacrifice as makes us admit its Principle to be Love" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 26).

CHURCH-IN-THE-ROUND

"A Unitarian Use of Meditation" will be Mrs. Marion W. Towner's layman's topic at the Church-in-the-Round on Sunday at 11:02 a.m., Cypress Club, 8th and Lincoln, Carmel.

Mrs. Towner, daughter of a Universalist minister, developed an interest in comparative religion from early Sunday school study in that field and has ranged widely in Hindu, Oriental and Christian tenets to develop her suggestions for a useful practice of meditation today. She has studied at Barnard College and the School of Journalism, Columbia University, and been on the staff of the New York Post and of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn Advertising Agency. In San Francisco she was public relations director and registrar of the American Academy of Asian Studies.

The widow of Rutherford H. Towner, widely known in fidelity and casualty insurance circles as the founder of the Towner Rating Bureau, New York, Mrs. Towner came to Carmel last fall from membership in the Berkeley Fellowship of Unitarians.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

A public lecture on Christian Science will be given on 25 April at 8:00 p.m. in the Church Edifice, Monte Verde Street near 6th Avenue.

Arnold H. Exo of Evanston, Illinois, will be the speaker, under the sponsorship of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel. A main theme of the lecture will be how the power of God is available in this age.

Mr. Exo is currently on tour of the North American continent as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He left a successful career in sales and advertising work some years ago to take up the full time practice of Christian Science. He was a wartime minister to the armed services during World War II, and has since become an authorized teacher of the religion.

The title of his lecture is "How Christian Science Reveals God's Healing Power."

PLAN OPEN HOUSE AT READING ROOM

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monterey, will hold open house at its Reading Room located at 288 West Franklin Street on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Sunday afternoon from 1 to 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit the recently remodeled, redecorated and newly furnished premises. Arrangements for the open house have been in charge of the regular personnel who will act as hosts.

Ever since 1942 the Reading Room has been in its present location, providing a quiet and restful atmosphere for study and meditation. Here, one may read or purchase the Bible, the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, and other Christian Science literature. Translations into a dozen languages other than English are available. A lending library is maintained where one may borrow any of the books displayed.

Each week day the Reading Room is open from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. It is not open Wednesday evenings nor on holidays. An attendant is in charge at all hours to lend assistance when needed.

When the 8 o'clock whistle sounded last Monday morning, Harrison Godwin was awakened from a dream in which was re-enacted what happened to his Reds in Sunday's baseball game. There was no love wasted by brother Fred and his Bearcats, who mauled, scratched, tore and mangled their way to a 19-5 victory.

Harrison had everything his own way; he had a rooting section, Schweninger in costume and a big bass drum. But it was all to no avail.

. . . The following letter is from the secretary of the association:

Editor: the Pine Cone: Be assured of the appreciation of the program committee and the board of directors of your continued interest and cooperation in making the Carmel convention a success. The holding of the convention will be exploited in advertising circles not only in California and all the coast but through national advertising publications.

Short addresses were made to the convention by Ray C. DeYoe, Herbert Heron, John B. Jordan and W. L. Overstreet.

MUSICAL NOTES

The fourth and last concert of the Artists' Series, for which many in Carmel have season tickets, will be presented in the Forest Theater on 1 June.

Monday afternoon next, the last of the "Alice Seckels" matinee musicales will take place in the colonial ballroom of the Hotel St. Francis in San Francisco. Many from the Peninsula will go to the city for the event, the only appearance of the marvel of the piano, Guiomar Novaes. David Alberto and Mr. and Mrs. Fenton P. Foster will be among the Carmelites attending.

Youthful Essayists In Humane Contest

Six youthful essayists in the Humane Society's contest in observance of Be Kind To Animals Week, have been honored by publication this week in the Pine Cone of their winning essays. They are, Elsie Keays, 11; Eugene Roehling, 12; Mildred Rogers, 13; Lexie Grant, 13; Violet Payne, 12; and Margaret Springer, 8.

EDITORIAL

The Santa Cruz News knocks the San Francisco newspapers on the knuckles for their predilection in making mountains out of molehills of small town happenings and never playing up the big things that occur in the smaller city.

F'rinstance, the funny antics of an intoxicated cow at Monterey the other day was considered of enough importance for a first page story in the SF papers. But, taking our own little city, together with historic Monterey, Pebble Beach, Del Monte and Seaside — why, we have enough to brag about in front page stories without enlarging on the antics of a tipsy cow that got her booze from some destroyed bottles of bootleg carelessly thrown where she happened to drink some without knowing that she was doing anything wrong.

Pine Needles

Mrs. F. G. Williams, wife of the pastor of All Saints, is here for a long stay . . . The number of books in the Carmel Library is now 6,331. Books recently added are "Trodden Gold," by H. O. O'Brien; "Being Respectable," by Flandrau; "The Mystery by Geneva," by Macaulay . . . Mischa Levitzki, distinguished pianist, was a visitor here this week, being registered at La Playa . . . To De Witt Appleton has been awarded the contract to build the club house for the Del Monte Gun Club . . . After many weeks' absence in San Jose, Mayor Perry Newberry and wife have returned to Carmel . . . The Bank of Carmel will be located on Dolores Street next to the post office. It will probably be open for business about 1 June.

REDWOOD PARK TRIAL BALLOON?

A Redwood National Park? Both conservationists and lumbermen here are wondering whether a statement made by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall at the recent Wilderness Conference here was a trial balloon on this subject.

"North of San Francisco in the famed Redwood Empire are some of the world's most magnificient trees," said Udall, "including some large virgin stands that will be logged over unless they are protected.

"Certainly, these superb trees are a matter of significance and pride not only to Californians but to all American people. I would like to see a large representative section of these incomparable forests preserved as a national park for all the people of this country."

More than 70,000 acres of redwoods are included in the California Redwood State Park system.

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

This week we have our first communique from Saigon, Vietnam. I will quote mostly from the letter as our correspondent has a charming way with a pen. I beg you to remember, however, that this is written by a young man, so some of his news and views my be slanted somewhat in that direction.

"The French must have been out of their flower-pickin' minds to let this place slip through their fingers." He continues by saying that if peace should ever break out, which is unlikely after 4,000 years of strife, turmoil, revolution, partition and successive occupation by the Chinese, Japanese, French, British, etc., Vietnam would be paradise. Saigon has some of the most magnificently landscaped boulevards in the world. The trees, flowers and shrubs are lush and well cared for. The city is laid out something like Paris, with avenues radiating from landscaped central plazas. "Strolling along these plazas are some of the loveliest, most graceful girls I've seen. Their costume is called "ao dai." The top is like a long-sleeved cheongsam (the classic, high-necked Chinese dress). The lower half consists of black or white pajamas over which float two long panels of the same material as the tops; always in bright colors and prints of filmy materials. A group of young ladies, each dressed in different colors, is like a cluster of butterflies." He adds that Roger would have a ball with his camera. (I don't know about that!)

We next consider the "Morality Protection Law," passed last year, and the deviations therefrom. (Like, people will always find a way.) The following are banned: "ladies of the evening" of all types, dancing, singing certain sentimental songs, card playing, twist music (even to listen to), gambling, drinking after 2 a.m., and numerous minor irritations, etc. "But there is one thing one can do and that is to hold hands! Walking into a bar in Saigon (and there are hundreds of them) one is confronted by a most unusual scene. There may be five or six customers (usually G.I.s) but on the other side of the bar is an array of 25 or 30 of the most interesting barmaids. Dressed in prim, white uniforms, they are all young, pretty, sweet and naive. The procedure is to select a seat opposite a barmaid who appeals to you. After rudimentary introductions and an exchange of pleasantries—no one speaking anyone else's language — you commence to hold hands!" Eventually, you are asked to buy the "barmaid" a drink (iced tea, as it happens). One night, our friend says, as he was whiling away an idle hour in this ridiculous pastime, his "barmaid" whipped out a little pair of scissors and a nail file and proceeded to give him a manicure, on the house. This, of course, "broke him up" to the point where he almost lost a fingernail, pulling his hand away.

And so goes the other side of the "unpleasantness" in Vietnam. But, as we always believe and confirm—wherever there is life, there's — you know.

WHAT'S DOING
D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

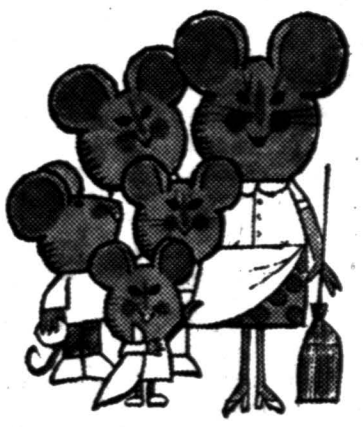

Shown at the left is a new public telephone that tells the operator electronically how much money has been deposited . . . you don't hear any gongs or chimes. Other new features are a single slot for nickels, dimes and quarters, and handset (or receiver) placement similar to a home wall phone. The streamlined new coin phone started making its first appearance in some locations in California in March.

Monterey and the Peninsula areas are in the midst of their annual Red Cross Fund drive. Everyone is aware of the aid and comfort provided by this organization in times of emergency. Join with us at Pacific Telephone in the support of this worthy cause.

"Money at work means men at work" is the slogan of Invest-in-America Week, April 28 to May 4. Investing in America may seem like a big order. But actually it's a matter of looking at it the way the Invest-in-America Council does. They say: "All over America people are saving and investing, providing the capital needed for more schools, homes and factories. These things, in turn, lead to more jobs, more opportunity, and better living for everyone."

You're never alone . . . when you have a telephone.

I recently heard about one of our repairmen who was called in to investigate some mysterious noises coming out of a Teletypewriter machine. It didn't take him long to locate the trouble. It seems that a family of field mice had taken refuge in a cozy nest of paper in the machine.

Spring is the miracle time of year in Arizona's Valley of the Sun. Set in this vividly blooming desert is the booming city of Phoenix, where plush motels, palm-lined poolsides and golf courses are filled, and dude ranches are in full swing. Our Magic Circle get-acquainted tour started amid canyons and cacti at 15,000-acre South Mountain Park, and progressed downtown to Heard Museum where emphasis is on Indian cultures of the Southwest.

Scottsdale, on the other side of Camelback Mountain from Phoenix, is a contradiction of smart, sophisticated shops set behind Gay 90's facades or Old West false fronts. From here the drive is south through Papago Park's 150-acre Desert Botanical Garden, then to Tempe, home of Arizona State University of athletic fame. Pride of Mesa is the beautiful Mormon Temple and its precision landscaped grounds.

The Apache Trail, a new black-topped road, skirts the foreboding Superstition Mountains where doomed prospectors sought the Lost Dutchman gold mine. Lakes appear with dramatic suddenness in this arid land, the result of vast reclamation projects which form a series of water playground areas. Red-brown canyon walls frame the first view of massive 300-foot high Theodore Roosevelt Dam.

We took a fascinating side trip to Tonto National Monument, 14th century cliff dwelling, and then continued north to Payson, a fine fishing and hunting country immortalized in fiction by Zane Grey. One of America's unheralded wonders is Tonto Natural Bridge, whose arch supports five tillable acres! Further on is Montezuma Castle, a well-preserved Indian cliff dwelling.

The SUR COAST

By Elizabeth Fuller Jones

A beautiful view of the Electa Grimes Ranch at the mouth of Palo Colorado Canyon, a dozen miles south of Carmel on Highway One, is pictured in the April National Geographic Magazine. In an article entitled, "Mystery of the Monarch," by Paul A. Zahl, Ph.D., the dense grove of eucalyptus trees that border the road leading through the Grimes ranch into the canyon is described as one of the favorite wintering locations of the Monarch butterflies.

Seventeen women in the Big Sur area have recently received Home Care of the Sick and Injured certificates from the National Red Cross. Since January, twenty-three residents of the area have received instruction from Mrs. Walter Doyle, Red Cross Volunteer Consultant for Nursing, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Cortwright, a nurse, the wife of a Pfeiffer State Park ranger.

A one-week specialized course in the International Wood Badge training will be offered 1-9 June at the Pico Blanco Boy Scout Camp, fourteen miles up Palo Colorado Canyon. The course is open to those who qualify from the Monterey Bay Area Boy Scout Council and will be conducted by Joseph St. Clair of Pacific Grove.

Twenty-eight qualified Girl Scouts from the Monterey Bay area will have an opportunity for the third consecutive year to take part in burro pack trips into the Los Padres National Forest and Ventana Wilderness areas. Two trips, of ten days each, are scheduled for June, for girls of seventh or higher grades who have had previous camping and hiking experience, and a Foot Travelers Badge. The girls and their counselors will be accompanied by an experienced guide from the Ventana Trail Trips, in upper Palo Colorado Canyon.

Easter Sunday marked the fifth year that Reverend C. E. Wilson, chaplain of the Robert Louis Stevension School in Pebble Beach, conducted the Easter services at Santa Lucia Episcopal Mission in Big Sur. On Easter, 1959, the first Episcopal service was held in the community and services have been held continuously each week, since that time. The Reverend Peter Farmer, Associate Rector of All Saint's Parish in Carmel, and lay readers, conduct regular services at the Mission throughout the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Eberle are the happy parents of a little daughter, Cynthia Sue, born on 1 April, 1963. The Eberles came to Big Sur from Arroyo Seco in January. Mr. Eberle is patrolman with the Big Sur guard station, Los Padres National Park.

Lt. Lynette Hettich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hettich of Big Sur, has been with her family for the past three weeks. Lt. Hettich, a WAC, serving with the United States Army at Fort McClellan, Alabama, in troop training, made her first visit to the Sur country since entering the army two and one-half years ago.

Mrs. Clara Dennis of El Cerrito, mother of Mrs. Hettich, was also in Big Sur during the Easter holiday season. In June, Beverly and Ernst Ewoldsen, of Berkeley, daughter and son-in-law of the Hettiches, and their three children, will vacation at the Hans Iver Ewoldsen ranch, Big Sur, while the senior Ewoldsens continue their five-month European holiday. Ernst Ewoldsen is associated with the University of California on a salt water conversion program.

At Pfeiffer State Park this past week there were between 100 and

CARMEL VALLEY

MEMOIRS OF JOE HITCHCOCK

By Marion Crush

Last week I told you about my maternal Grandfather Victorine. This week I'd like to say something about my paternal grandfather, Isaac Hitchcock.

On July 7, 1846, the American flag was raised in Monterey by Commodore John Drake Sloat signalling the end of Mexican rule in Alta California. My grandfather, a native of Troy, New York, was with the Commodore's landing party. He was a lieutenant on the Frigate of War, Warren, which sailed into Monterey and was joined by General Fremont marching by land from Natividad — east of Salinas. My grandfather remained in Monterey after he was discharged from the service, and acquired land in the Arroyo Seco country. My father, Joseph, was the only son of my grandfather's marriage to Madelena Peralta Meadows, a Mission Indian girl.

Many years ago, Joaquin Botiller, a good friend of my grandfather, told me this story. My grandfather, because of the part he played in California history, was sent to the ramparts of the old Presidio to fire a salute during a Fourth of July celebration. After a while he tired of the job. When he again loaded the cannon, he left the ramrod in the barrel. When he fired, the ramrod was shot out into the bay. He could not load the cannon again, so he had to quit firing.

The last time the old cannon was fired was in 1898 when the war was declared against Spain. The citizens of Monterey gathered at the monument of Father Serra and pledged themselves to take arms against Spain. The old cannon was fired and the cannon ball fell on the Presidio ground and rolled across Lighthouse Avenue as it didn't have the velocity to carry out into the bay.

As I mentioned before, my paternal grandmother was Indian. I am proud of the Indian blood which is in my veins, even though I am only one-fourth Indian. In years gone by many people were ashamed of an Indian heritage in their family. When Mrs. Anne Fisher was writing her historical novel about early Carmel Valley, CATHEDRAL IN THE SUN, she changed the name of her main character because the Meadows family did not want it known there was Indian blood in them. Jack Preble, in her book, was actually James Meadows, and he was married to a California Indian. I am related to the Meadows family — my aunt being Isabelle Meadows. Aunt Isabelle was the last surviving person to know the language of the Costanoan Indians. In her later years, she went to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., to record the language before it was completely lost.

But I am getting ahead of my story. To go back, I never lived in a tepee, never killed a bear or a buffalo, or even a deer. But I have roped many buffalo. I have slept with my saddle for a pillow. I have never killed any large game as I do not believe in destroying the life that God gave the wild animals. I was a cowboy once and I rode many bad horses. To be truthful, I have been bucked off several times. I have no weapons as I do not need any among the friendly deer, quail, and beautiful song birds and owls that say "hoo, hoo," during the night.

The history of this area, even the history of California, could not be written without including our Indian forefathers. According to some reports there were only two groups of Indians larger than the Costanoan-speaking group which extended from San Francisco on the north to Santa Barbara on the south. In 1770 this group had a population of 7,000. Now, there are only three of this tribe left, distant relatives of mine—Johnnie, Berthold, and Alex Onesemo. They all reside in Carmel Valley and are the last descendants of Juan Onesemo, who helped build the Mission of San Carlos de Borremeo. Next week I'll tell you something about the father and great-great-grandfather of Johnnie, Berthold and Alex.

LAW IN ACTION

LOW FLYING PLANES

The government cannot take your property without paying you "just compensation" for it.

What is a taking of property?

The other day the U. S. Supreme Court found that low flying planes disturbed homes so much that it amounted to a "taking" of property. For this the city which owned the airport had to pay.

This new ruling has expanded government liability. In bygone days, your land ownership meant you owned up to heavens. Let someone interfere with your usable airspace, and he would be a trespasser on your land.

Without an easement, low hanging wires or trees are a trespass. Disturbance caused by smoke, blasting, noise, etc. are nuisances.

Both would do harm to you as the land owner for which you could get damages.

Trespass interfered with your possession; nuisances, with your enjoyment of your land.

The Supreme Court held that frequent, low flights over one's home, greatly disturbing the owner was a 'taking" of his property. The homeowner couldn't talk over his phone, couldn't sleep well at night. The house would rattle and plaster would fall and crack. This noise affected his health. An engine failure might mean the plane would fall on his house.

In another case low flying military planes destroyed a chicken farm's use. Scared chickens did not lay. Sometimes they died. The court held this was a taking of the farm for which the government must pay.

You have other tangible rights to your property. A changed street, a change in grade that cuts off your right of access may take away a property right. A flood control project that sometimes causes flooding of your land is also a taking.

When one sues the government, he must often take quick action. One must often file claims with certain officers or agencies before going to court, and often within a short time.

THEATRE

Studio Auditions

The Studio Theatre in Carmel will hold auditions for casting in its forthcoming summer musical season on Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

The scheduled productions for the sixth summer musical season are "Bye Bye Birdie" and "Here We Go Again," a musical revue. "Birdie" is the timely and spirited musical which satirizes the teenage rock and roll craze and the havoc it brings to American parenthood. "Here We Go Again" is a musical comedy revue composed of the most popular sketches, songs and blackouts which were first presented in "8 and Run," "Whoops!" and "Loose Ends" written for The Studio by Jerry De Bono.

Teenage and adult roles, singing and non-singing, are open in both productions.

Co-directors for this summer's season are Betty Hackett Martin and Clifford Berry. Musical director and accompanist is Gary Carver. Choreographer Dale Lafler and scenic designer Ruth Jordan Allan complete the production staff.

Those wishing further information about the auditions may telephone The Studio at MA 4-1661.

Cast of "Honey"

Ruth Warshawsky returns to the stage of the Golden Bough Circle Theatre this week, after an absence of eight years, to appear in Shelagh Delaney's play, "A Taste of Honey." She will have the role, played on Broadway by Angela Lansbury, of a Lancashire barfly who abandons her teen-age daughter in order to marry a raucous car salesman. The unillusioned daughter, left to find out about life on her own, will be acted by MPC student Val Riseley, who starred this season in "Much Ado About Nothing" and "The Torchbearers" in campus productions.

Butch Williams, popular young First Theatre performer, plays the first man in the girl's life. Ronn Mullen, frequently seen at the White Oaks and Circles theatres, portrays the second, a gentle fellow who nurses her through pregnancy only to be driven away by the returning mother.

Robert Horne, a retired British officer and formerly a stage designer in London and Manchester, makes his Circle debut in the role of the salesman who packs mama off after nine months of marriage.

Author Delaney, who was 18 when she wrote "A Taste of Honey," approaches these colorful characters with a detachment rare in authors twice her age, handling potentially offensive material with a wry humor and a sincere compassion which remove all hints of sensationalism or sentimentality. Her slice of English life will provide a new kind of challenge to five accomplished actors.

"A Taste of Honey" begins a seven-week run on Friday evening, with performances on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays only.

MUSIC

Pops Concert

Tickets for Sunday's Pops Concert will be on sale tomorrow in Carmel at the Browse Around Record Shop and in front of Carmel banks.

Mrs. Frank Ringland, symphony guild president, reminds the public that the Pops concert is for all ages, with children under six admitted free. Tickets for adults and youngsters are $1.

The symphony orchestra, directed by John Gosling, will play selections from "South Pacific," as well as other "light" music. The Monterey Peninsula College Jazz band will perform under the direction of Jerry Coker, with Butch Williams and Mrs. Coker as soloists. Lieutenant Commander John Boles of the Naval Postgradute School will also sing, and will lead the audience in community singing.

Three will be refreshments in the informal manner of the famous Boston Pops orchestra.

The concert will be given in the agricultural building at the Monterey Peninsula Fairgrounds, at 2 p.m.

String Awards

The Monterey County Symphony, through its conductor, John Gosling, has announced plans for a state wide competition for string players to be held in Monterey, 18-19 May. This Young Artists String Awards competition was made possible by an individual contribution to the symphony, given especially for this purpose. The contest is open to violinists, violists, cellists and bass players under the age of 30. There will be a first place cash award of 500 dollars, and a second place prize of 100 dollars. The first prize winner will also be given the opportunity to appear as soloist with the Monterey County Symphony during its 1963-64 season.

Regulations governing participation in the String Awards competition state that the contestant must be either a resident of the state of California or enrolled in a California junior college, college or university, and that he shall not have passed his thirtieth birthday before 1 June, 1963. However, an armed service credit of three years will be allowed.

Other entry rules include a registration fee of five dollars, to be sent at the time of application, as well as a biographical sketch including a brief resume of musical training, experience and repertoire to be performed at the 18-19 May eliminations. Entries must be sent to the Monterey County Symphony no later than 10 May.

Each contestant will be expected to appear at the audition at his own expense, and failure to appear at the designated time will automatically forfeit his entry and registration fee.

Judges for the occasion will expect participants to perform from a repertoire including any or all of the following: a sonata, suite or similar work; a composition by a contemporary composer; and one concerto from the standard repertoire. All selections must be performed from memory and contestants will be expected to provide their own accompanists. Judges will choose at random from the music submitted, and each individual's performing time shall not exceed 25 minutes.

Interested instrumentalists may address their entries and/or inquiries to: Young Artists String Awards, Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, P.O. Box 3851, Carmel, California; or they may call MA 4-4125.

Opera Program

Nancy Ness Bowman will present her Opera Workshop at All Saints' Parish Hall on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Her students, Charlotte Boger, Lucy Bowman, Jo Ann Coffey, Ted Cross, Peggy Horn, Nancy Hurdle, Mary Kersting, Francis Kibler, Carolyn Murdock, Vince Russo, Robert Santero, and Jack Walker, will present selections from Verdi's "Traviata," and "Don Carlo;" Puccini's "Madame Butterfly;" and scenes from Mozart's "The Magic Flute." The group will be assisted by guest artist Jeannine Gillon, and by the Harmony Hill Trio (H.M.N. Nicholas, violin; Robert Phillips, cello; Camille Olaeta, piano). Mrs. Olaeta is accompanist for the Workshop.

Mrs. Bowman's Opera Workshop was started in 1959 for the purpose of introducing young singers to the repertory of grand opera. Several former students have gone on to become professional singers, notably Carol Todd, who will sing with the San Francisco Opera next fall, and Jim Fromme, a member of the Dallas (Texas) Opera Company.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Once upon a time there was a library situated almost in the middle of an area inhabited by dog owners. Needless to say, the demand for books about dogs and their care was so strong that the library was never able to supply enough good ones and was constantly looking for them. What was the happiness of the librarians when a new authoritative dog book was published in April of 1963! So of course the library bought the book and started it circulating at once. The title was The Complete Book of Dog Training and Care, and it was written by J. J. McCoy, and it had pictures.

A collection of real life mystery stories is How to Catch Five Thousand Thieves, by Gerard Luisi. The author was for many years chief investigator for a large insurance company, and the stories he tells are better than detective stories on television because these tales are true.

In April, just after you have paid your income taxes, you might be interested in the next book. It is entitled Money Management for Your Family, and it was published by the magazine, Better Homes and Gardens. There is a five year record section in the back of the book which should give you good ideas about setting up such a record for yourself. If we had known so much of it was taken up by this group of record blanks, we would never have ordered the book, but it is and we are stuck with protecting it from readers. Don't cut it out. Don't write in it. Just look at it and make another set for yourself.

For the sportsman-builder we have How to Build Fifteen Fiberglass Boats, by Charles Bell. The numerous illustrations by the author seem to be clear and complete. It's a little hard for a librarian to judge.

The 1963 edition of the Fodor Guide to Hawaii is ready for circulation. People who were there years ago complain of the way the islands are today, but those of us who were late getting there love them just as they are. This book is enough to make all of us long to go back!

A new biography of Carrie Nation is here. Written by Carleton Beals, it is entitled Cyclone Carrie. The illustrations are photographs and show Carrie with her famous hatchet. She was against almost everything except going to church, and after fasting saw visions and heard God telling her to go forth and wipe out sin. Make no mistake about it, she did a great deal of good, and many people had reason to bless her.

National Library Week begins on 22 April, and on that evening the libraries of this area will sponsor a dinner in the Banquet Room at Neptune's Table on the Wharf. Ralph Moody will speak, and also Frank Dempsey. Both men are library trustees, Mr. Moody in Burlingame and Mr. Dempsey in Berkeley. Reservations should be mailed before the 18th, and the price is $3.75.

ORGANIZATIONS

The newly formed chapter of the SIERRA CLUB for Monterey County will hold an important conservation meeting on Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Carmel High School cafeteria. Speaker will be Gordon Hall, Monterey planning consultant. He will present the Area Plan, which includes conservation areas such as parks, green belts, etc. Sierra Club members invite those of the public who are interested in participating in conservation programs to attend this meeting. . . . A knapsack trip into Pine Valley in the Los Padres Forest is planned for the weekend of 27-28 April with Roger Greenwald leading. Persons interested in joining this hike may call Mr. Greenwald, FR 3-2766 or FR 2-1377 . . . Anyone in Monterey County who would like to become a member of this chapter of the Sierra Club is invited to call Patrick Dormody, chairman of the membership committee, at MA 4-1151, or James Harkins, secretary, MA 4-3993.

CARMEL LODGE NO. 680, F. & A. M. will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. to confer the third degree, followed by refreshments. All master Masons and sojourners are invited to attend . . .

Judge Eugene Harrah will speak on "The Holy Bible and the Law" at tomorrow's meeting of CARMEL HIGH TWELVE CLUB, at noon at the Masonic Temple. All master Masons are invited . . .

At last Thursday's meeting of CARMEL KIWANIS CLUB the Reverend Peter Farmer, of All Saints' Episcopal Church, spoke of the meaning of Easter. Dr. Ted Broaddus announced that Boy Scout Explorer Post 107, sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club, has been authorized by Boy Scouts of America headquarters, and is ready to go. Open to boys of high school age, the brand new post already has nine members. A committee meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall will deal with the particulars . . . At today's meeting, Kiwanis members heard Arthur Porter speak on "Confinement in a Chinese Prison Camp" . . .

Geza St. Galy, CARMEL CRAFTS GUILD president, welcomed new members Janet Schwartz, stitchery, and Frank Craig, potter, at last week's monthly meeting. Joseph Wythe and George Thomson, Monterey

PAINTING

Jean Kellogg Show

Jean Kellogg, Carmel Highlands artist, will have a one-man show of her paintings, drawings and etching, on public view in the home of her friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. John Truesdell, for one week, opening Sunday and continuing through 28 April, between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. daily.

Following studies at the Yale School of Fine Arts and the Art Students' League of New York, Miss Kellogg worked with Paul Dougherty, Karl Knaths and Fernand Leger. She has had one-man shows in New York and California, and received the first prize and Phelan Award for Graphic Arts. She has exhibited widely, and is represented in the San Francisco Museum of Art, The Museum of Modern Art in New York, The Duncan Phillips Gallery of Washington, D.C., numerous university libraries and private collections.

The driveway to the Truesdell residence is off Highway One, a short distance south of Point Lobos Reserve, just north of the Chevron gas station, on the ocean side of the highway, and is well marked.

Cascella Show

Canvasses and watercolors of the Italian Riviera, Paris, New York City and California, are included in a one-man exhibit by Michele Cascella, Italian painter, which opened on Sunday at the Laky Galleries. Cascella returns to Carmel for his second exhibit here after a tour of one-man shows in Amsterdam, Rome, Paris, Lausanne, Milan and Verona. He is described as "a genuine post-impressionist who has developed his own authentic style, conveying a tremendous joy of living."

The Laky Galleries, on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, are open from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. daily, and the exhibit may be seen through 27 April.

Young Artists

Alex Gonzales' Art Work Shop for children (ages 6 through 9) will be held for the next nine Saturdays, 10 a.m. till 12 noon, in Bungalow 17 at Sunset School. Among other things, painting, collage, and papier-mache will be taught. Further information may be had by calling the American Federation of Art, MA 4-2918.

Rare Photos

Now on view at the American Federation of Arts headquarters on Lincoln Street, Carmel, is a collection of photographs of San Francisco and San Francisco Chinatown taken prior to 1906. These include the Edward R. Brady collection, and pictures by Arnold Genthe. The Genthe collection, which was used to illustrate the book, "The Earth Shook — The Sky Burned," includes a set of 22 photos of the earthquake and fire taken on the morning of 18 April, 1906. The A.F.A. commissioned renowned photographer and Peninsula resident, Ansel Adams, to make the prints from the original negatives.

The Genthe collection has been loaned by the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco.

Of special interest to Carmel is the fact that Will Irwin, the author, had urged Genthe to store his negatives away from the city. They were then spirited to a home in Carmel. We have no knowledge of the name of the caretaker. If any of our readers know who this may have been, we would like to hear from them and solve this interesting mystery.

Among The Pines

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse, III, as they smilingly greeted their friends at "Macomber House," the Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. John Boit Morse, at the reception following their wedding Saturday at All Saints' Church in Carmel. The bride is the former Marjory Morgan ("Mardi") Lloyd, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Lloyd of Carmel.

The 5 p.m. service, read by the Reverend David Hill, was attended by family members only. Easter lilies decorated the church.

Mardi, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess style, antique ivory satin gown which had also been the wedding gown of her two sisters. It was made with a deep band of ruching at the scoop neckline, long sleeves, and a full skirt falling into a sweeping train. She had designed her ivory tulle shoulder length veil, its scattered ivory velvet leaves suggesting a wreath, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white irises.

Pamela Petersen of Carmel, a childhood friend and a student at the University of California at Davis, was the bride's only attendant. Her daffodil yellow silk frock was made with a short-sleeved, fitted bodice and a short bell skirt. She wore a bow of the same material in her hair and carried yellow irises.

Raymond L. Kitchener of Pacific Palisades served as best man. Joining the wedding procession on its way to the altar were Owen and Lloyd Baylis, Mardi's two small nephews, who just before the ceremony slipped into the church pew beside their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Baylis (Jennefer Lloyd) of Menlo Park.

For the reception at "Macomber House," Mardi changed into a pale blue sleeveless sheath. The house was decorated with spring flowers, and there was an orchestra for dancing.

After a short honeymoon in San Francisco, the young couple returned yesterday to their studies at California State Polytechnic College. They are living at Sunset Palisades, south of San Luis Obispo.

Mrs. John L. Williams (Lucinda Lloyd) of Carmel Valley is the bride's other sister, and Francis P. Lloyd of San Francisco is her brother. The late Professor Francis E. Lloyd of Carmel and McGill University in Montreal, Canada, was her grandfather, and Dr. David P. C. Lloyd of New York is her uncle. She graduated from Carmel High School and is now in her second year at Cal Poly

Sam, the son of Mrs. Edna Marie Morse of La Jolla and the late Major S. F. B. Morse, Jr., graduated from Carmel High School, attended Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts, and the University of California. He is now majoring in architecture at Cal Poly, where he is affiliated with Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. With his marriage, he will relinquish membership in the San Francisco Bachelors.

Mrs. Edna Lewis Hoen of Carmel and Samuel F. B. Morse of Pebble Beach are grandparents of the new bridegroom, and he is the nephew of Mrs. Kenneth S Walker, Mrs. Richard Osborne and John Boit Morse.

Special Event

The weekend of 6 April was a busy one for Bruce and Bonnie Locken of Carmel. Friday night they entertained the Al Wisemans, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Welch, at the Casa Munras' weekly twist party. Mr. Locken is the general manager of Casa Munras; Mr. Welch is better known as "Friendly Clyde," on the KCBS "Dave McElhatton" Show.

At 1:15 p.m. Saturday, 6 April, a nine-pound, one-ounce boy, Lars Locken, was born to Bonnie.

This week Dave McElhatton will put into operation "Airlift Layette" as he flies down from San Francisco with gifts for the new baby, who should afterwards be known as "Lucky Lars Locken."

Model Student

Joy Fehring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fehring, of Carmel, has been selected to model in the fashion show for the fiftieth annual Cal-Aggie Picnic Day. It will be held on Saturday on the Davis campus of the University of California.

An estimated 50 thousand visitors are expected to attend the celebration marking the half-century of this traditional spring open house. The day's program will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a parade of high school bands and floats.

FOR THE ARTIST OR CRAFTSMAN we have just the thing. A fine architect took an old Carmel charmer and turned it into a wonderful studio home. His plans have changed and he now finds it necessary to move, but his loss is an interesting gain for a creative person who likes contemporary design in a traditional setting — and very near town. Ask for details.

A NEW HOME PRACTICALLY IN THE VILLAGE — just down the way a piece from the Pine Inn. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, electric kitchen, single garage, fireplace. It's plastered and has hardwood floors. What it doesn't have is any garden or outdoor development except the beautiful trees Nature put there, and we have a low price of 29,000, with an 80 per cent loan available. Helen has the key.

TWIST! Any way you like! You'll still have a spectacular view of the lovely Santa Lucias from most every window of a well-built three bedroom home near the High School. Let us show you what $37,500 will buy in a home that's just a little "special".

OUR OFFICE isn't any where nearly the biggest in Carmel. We are interested in your real estate problems, though, and hope you'll try our old-fashioned personal service for your home, investment, and business opportunity requirements on the Monterey Peninsula.

Jack Chalkley of Carmel has been named general chairman for the Monterey-Carmel region in Stanford University's $100 million PACE campaign. Jack, current holder of the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce title of "Outstanding Young Man of 1962," lives on Mesa Drive with his wife, Jacqueline, and their three children.

His appointment was announced by J. Arch Butts, Jr., PACE campaign regional chairman for Monterey. Jack will spearhead the final, intensive phase of Stanford's fund drive in this area, directing a volunteer force of about 100 committee members to reach some 600 Stanford alumni.

A 1953 Stanford graduate, he is an active business and civic leader on the Peninsula, a past president of the Stanford Alumni Association of the Monterey Peninsula, and co-chairman of the Stanford Alumni Conference in 1957 and 1958.

Ted Edwards Visits

Ted Edwards, of Atlanta, Georgia, was in town for a few days last week visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canoles, and seeing old friends. A Carmel resident in the mid-20's, Mr. Edwards worked in the Bank of Carmel and played in a band with Allen Knight at that time. Since then, he became a champion motorcycle racer in the United States and Canada, and at present operates a skyport and drag strip in Fairburn, just outside Atlanta.

The late Mrs. Carol Edwards, mother of Mr. Edwards and Mrs. Canoles, was well known in Carmel.

State Scholarship Winners

Seven Carmel High School seniors have been awarded California State Scholarships for 1963-64: Gay Beauchamp, David Biggs, Ruth Botten, Jerry Bradley, Patricia Lewis, Stanley Smith and Valerie Whitworth.

Out of approximately 16,000 applicants, some 1,700 scholarships were awarded. All State Scholars selected this year are within the highest seven per cent of college aptitude.

April Babies

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sowa of Carmel became the parents of a daughter, Deborah Ann, on 5 April.

Matthew, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Bordonaro of Carmel, was born on 7 April.

A daughter, Johanna Chapman, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fay of the Parrott Ranch, Carmel Valley, on 7 April.

All three newcomers arrived at the Community Hospital.

News of Rusty

Carrot-thatched Rusty Draper, Carmel's gift to the night club circuit, opened a two-week singing stint on Monday at Frenchie's, in Haywood. Following this, he is considering starring in a film to be made in Japan.

To Guadalajara

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bolter of Carmel are pleased and proud to hear that their granddaughter, Gail, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bolter, Jr., of Vacaville, has been chosen to represent San Jose State College at summer school in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Gail, who has many friends in Carmel, was chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement to attend the Stanford University branch at Guadalajara, and will study Spanish, anthropology and geography of Mexico. She is a 1961 graduate of Vacaville High School, and attended Oregon State University before enrolling at San Jose, where she is majoring in social science.

Traveros Visit

Mrs. Margaret Mason and Nick Kovacevich entertained Superior Judge William F. Traverso and Mrs. Traverso at Rocky Point Lodge at dinner last week.

The Traversos were married on 6 April at the San Francisco home of Judge Traverso's daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Dungan. They spent a short honeymoon at Pebble Beach Lodge early last week, and in mid-May are planning an extended wedding trip in Europe.

Mrs. Mason is a long-standing friend of Judge Traverso and his first wife, Ruth, whose death occurred a year and a half ago.

New Granddaughter

Mrs. Evelyn Nidever Hildebrand of Carmel received a telephone call from San Francisco on Tuesday. Her son-in-law, John Lombardi, reported the happy news of the birth of the Lombardis' second daughter. Mrs. Lombardi is the former Laurel Dell Hildebrand, who grew up in Carmel and attended Carmel schools before going on to the University of California at Berkeley. The little girl, who has been named Alison ("Or maybe it's Allison," says Mrs. Hildebrand. "I was too excited to ask John how the name was spelled!") has an older sister, Laurie, two years old.

Alison is Mrs. Hildebrand's fourth grandchild. Her son, David, and his wife, Carolyn, have a daughter, Yvonne, almost 18 months old; and her son, Mark, and his wife, Brenda, have a son, Matthew, just two days older than Yvonne.

Council Holds

ra, who is buried at the Carmel Mission Basilica. The Spanish government offered to provide air transport and accommodations. Whittlesey asked that the Council consider the invitation at the 8 May meeting.

In a quick political maneuver, the second reading of the ordinance regulating cutting trees on private property was continued. This probably means that Councilman Francis Whitaker will not be present to vote, since he has indicated that his resignation will occur on or before the 27th of this month. Somebody was adroitly outflanked.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Whitaker presented Councilman Frank Putnam with a toy cat and mouse, in commemoration of Putnam's remarks two weeks ago about the antics in the Council at that time over Whitaker's pending resignation.

Conspicuously absent were any representations of the miniature railroad which also runs through the chamber from time to time.

How To Gamble

system (Budget $7,700,000) pays the Superintendent $18,000. The Pacific Grove school system (Budget $1,749,000) pays a salary of $14,000.

Congressman Burt Talcott, who is not from Massachusetts, also receives a salary of $22,500. The budget of the outfit he works for is somewhat bigger than that of the school district.

But the whopping size of Bair's salary is not nearly as important as the whopping big job he is going to have to do to justify it. A board which but recently went to the voters for an override tax because of insufficent regular revenues has taken an enormous gamble on this man. If he earns his keep, the board will be revered and respected. If he does not, the recently elected trustees may wish that their campaigns had been not quite successful.

GOVERNMENT

Reserve Strength

To keep the lid on the riotous impulses which generate on the beach and along the avenues during the week preceding Easter, Police Chief Clyde Klaumann last week called up six members of the newly-formed Police Reserve.

The effectiveness of their uniformed beach patrols afoot, the two-officer crews they made possible in the police cars, and rapid desk work in the station is borne out by Klaumann's conclusion that the period was one of the smoothest and quietest in recent years.

The volunteers served an aggregate of over two hundred hours during the seven-day period, hours which would have represented over $500 in overtime wages for the regular officers.

City Councilman James Buffington, who has been made a special deputy, took an active part on patrol along with Bernie Roberts, Clyde Klaumann, the son of the chief, Mitty Tobiasen, Hampton Stewart and Carl Patnude.

Allen Knight, former city councilman, helped with the desk work and the innumerable calls.

Editors Window

Unfortunately, we have permitted ourselves to become used to a world provided only with the shabby and the expedient. We resign ourselves to running about the house in a fever of replacing things that might well have endured for a lifetime. We dutifully trundle a two-year old wreck to the car dealers for another model which will serve us just as treacherously and just as briefly.

We have surrendered the proud skills of repair and rehabilitation, and replaced them with the dreary and resigned instruction printed on the wrapper: (A) unplug the old one and dispose of it; (B) plug in the bright, shiny new one. Tighten the screws. Close the cover. And have another one ready.

Speaking of obsolescence, we threw away the letter prefixes to our phone numbers a short while ago, and plugged in the bright, shiny new numbers. 141546229587-7498324.

Don't try to translate it. And don't try to dial it. You will get a tape recording of a voice suggesting in happy and precise tones that you go out and buy a new one.

Anyway, I was having lunch with a friend the other day. We came out of the Hearthstone, and at the corner of Junipero and Sixth a cluster of telephone company trucks and workmen were gathered busily about an open ditch. Everybody was working very hard, putting things into the ditch and taking other things out.

I was being no more inquisitive than alest newsmen are apt to be; that is to say, I was totally indifferent. Nevertheless, I asked conversationally, "I wonder what they are doing?"

My luncheon guest casually replied, "Oh, they're getting rid of the letters and putting in the numbers."

Wildflower Show

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History will hold its second annual wildflower show Friday through Sunday.
